

Abstract

The invention relates to a composition comprising a macromolecule or particle having one or several hydrophobic domains on the surface thereof whereby at least one transducer peptide is adsorbed thereon. Said composition can be used to introduce the macromolecule or particle into living cells.